关于黄廷方·信和一带一路研究院

ABOUT NG TENG FONG · SINO GROUP BELT AND ROAD RESEARCH INSTITUTE

响应习近平主席提出的一带一路倡议, 香港珠海学院黄廷方·信和一带一路研究院(原名“一带一路研究所”)于2017年成立。自成立以来, 它一直是推动香港新丝绸之路发展研究和讨论的先锋, 以多学科为学术方向, 以政策为重点, 并与本地工商界紧密合作, 同时也致力发展与海外研究和政策机构的国际联系。研究院目前开设两个一带一路相关的硕士课程, 分别是一带一路国家国际关系社会科学硕士和一带一路国家国际工商管理社会科学硕士。

In response to the Belt and Road Initiative launched by President Xi, the Ng Teng Fong·Sino Group Belt and Road Research Institute (formerly known as the “One Belt One Road Research Institute”) of the Hong Kong Chu Hai College was established in 2017. It has been the pioneer in promoting the study and discussion of the development of the new Silk Road in Hong Kong. It is multi-disciplinary in academic orientation, policy focused and working closely with local industries and businesses, but also trying hard to develop international connections with overseas research and policy organizations. The Research Institute currently offers two master programmes on Belt and Road studies, namely MSocSci in International Relations for Belt and Road Countries and MSocSci in International Business Management for Belt and Road Countries.

课程简介 PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

一带一路国家国际关系社会科学硕士课程是一门跨学科的综合课程, 专注于中国与一带一路国家的国际关系可能发生的变化。课程旨在让学生掌握当代地缘政治的趋势及其对主要国家的全球和地区地缘战略的影响。

The MSocSci in International Relations for Belt and Road Countries is an interdisciplinary and comprehensive programme focusing on the possible changes in international relations between China and Belt and Road countries. The basic objective of this programme is for students to capture the main trends of contemporary geopolitics and their influence on geostrategy of major international actors at global and regional levels.

师资

Teaching Staff

此课程由香港珠海学院黄廷方·信和一带一路研究院 Oleksandr Pidchosa 博士担任课程主任,并由院长陈文鸿教授以及多位本地和海外教授组成的教学团队负责教学工作。海外教授除了来自伦敦大学亚非学院(英国)及中山大学(中国)的著名学者卢荻教授外,还有来自里昂商学院(法国)以及一带一路沿线国家(乌克兰、伊朗、巴基斯坦、乌兹别克斯坦等)多所著名大学的教授。

Teaching is provided by a team of local and international professors led by the programme director Dr. Oleksandr Pidchosa, associate professor of the Ng Teng Fong·Sino Group Belt and Road Research Institute of Hong Kong Chu Hai College. Teaching staff include Professor Thomas Chan, Director of our Research Institute, Professor Dic Lo from the School of Oriental and African Studies of the University of London (UK) and Sun Yat-sen University (China), as well as distinguished professors from the Emlyon Business School (France) and several prestigious universities along the Belt and Road countries (Ukraine, Iran, Pakistan, Uzbekistan, etc.).

职业前景 Career Prospects

毕业生将能在本地或海外就业市场及国际企业中具有竞争优势。中国的一带一路倡议现正发展成为一个由跨国企业、中国企业以及新旧丝绸之路贸易路线沿线的许多国家政府共同牵头的全球性事业。这将会在丝绸之路沿线和非沿线国家产生出大量一带一路专业职位和对国际关系知识和技能的需求。政府、企业、甚至非政府组织以及媒体和教育行业都将急需了解地缘政治与地缘经济趋势及转向变化的分析人员与专才。本课程是香港及海外学术机构首个开设的同类课程。

Graduates should be able to compete with advantages in local and overseas job markets and in international ventures. The Belt and Road Initiative of China is now evolving into an international enterprise led by multinational and Chinese enterprises as well as many national governments along the various trade routes of the old and new Silk Road. There will be a huge demand for professionals with adequate knowledge and skill background in the international relations of China and other countries in the context of the Chinese Belt and Road Initiative and its reactions from countries along and outside the Silk Road routes. There will also be an urgent need for analysts and experts who are knowledgeable about the trends and shifts in geopolitics and geoeconomics for governments, corporations and even non-government organisations as well as media and education institutions. This Programme is the first of its kind to be offered by an academic institution in Hong Kong and overseas.

陈立基
Mr. Joseph CHAN

自2013年习近平主席提出一带一路倡议以来，我一直是一带一路的积极投资者和经营者。当我从陈文鸿教授那儿得知香港珠海学院将开设全球首个以一带一路为中心的课程时，我便报读以提高自己的工作知识。课程的必修课和选修课内容广泛，包罗万象。我们可以了解中东及其石油政治；巴基斯坦及其港口发展；俄罗斯、东欧及其西方邻国的关系。更有趣的是，教师队伍大部分是来自乌克兰、巴基斯坦和伊朗的非盎撒人，为学生提供了关于一带一路的不同视角。这使得香港珠海学院脱颖而出，成为香港高等教育的“改革者”。我向所有认同一带一路发展价值的人推荐这个硕士课程。最后但同样重要的是，我与我的儿子同年毕业，这可能是香港珠海学院的标志性事件。

I have been an active Belt & Road investor and operator since it was initiated by President Xi Jinping in 2013. When I learned from Professor Thomas Chan that Hong Kong Chu Hai College was to offer the world's first ever Belt & Road centric programme I enrolled to it to enhance my work knowledge. The compulsory and elective courses in the programme were wide and embracing. We could learn about the Middle East and its oil politics; Pakistan and her ports development; relationship of Russia, Eastern Europe and their western neighbours. More interestingly was that the teaching faculty was majority lead by non-Anglo-Saxon professors from Ukraine, Pakistan and Iran, providing students with a different perspective on Belt & Road. This made Hong Kong Chu Hai College standing out as a "reformer" in the tertiary education in Hong Kong. I recommend this Master programme to anyone who shares the value of Belt & Road development. Last but not least my son graduated on the same year with me which is probably iconic to Hong Kong Chu Hai College.

Having worked for many years in the Medical Affairs department of several multinational pharmaceutical companies, I collaborated closely with colleagues across the Asia-Pacific, Europe, and the United States, while also facilitating academic exchanges between domestic experts and their overseas counterparts. Through these experiences, I came to deeply appreciate that beyond professional competence, mutual trust and cooperation are profoundly influenced by cultural differences, economic conditions, policy orientations, and even geopolitical trends. This personal realization drove me to systematically fill the gaps in my knowledge of international relations. As a China-proposed initiative that is actively reshaping the global landscape, the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) made me particularly drawn to the Master of Social Sciences in International Relations for Belt and Road Countries at Hong Kong Chu Hai College – the first program in the nation to focus specifically on BRI international relations.

The one-year full-time study far exceeded my expectations. The curriculum was compact yet comprehensive, progressing logically from geostrategy and international political economy to history, culture, and research methodologies. The faculty are knowledgeable and inspiring. I was particularly impressed by Professor Zeynab Farhadi's detailed explanation in the course "10+3: Economics and Politics of ASEAN, China, Japan, and South Korea," which clearly illuminated the dynamics of regional cooperation and rivalry in East Asia. The course "Oil Politics, Economy and Society of the Middle East" was equally rewarding – Professor Oleksandr Pidchosa always began each class with "What's the latest news?" He expertly connected daily international affairs to Middle Eastern geopolitical rivalries, from oil price fluctuations to the strategies of producing countries, making the complex politics of energy tangible, accessible, and vivid. Furthermore, classroom discussions with classmates from diverse industries and countries frequently sparked unexpected perspectives through the collision of ideas, and I also gained treasured friendships. Looking back, this experience has not only helped me build a macro-analytical framework but also empowered me to view my work from a global perspective. Whether I continue to deepen cross-border pharmaceutical cooperation or transition into broader international affairs, I face the future with great confidence. I look forward to applying what I have learned to contribute my part to the development of the Belt and Road Initiative. I welcome more like-minded friends to join us and open this door to the world together.

Studying at Ng Teng Fong · Sino Group Belt and Road Research Institute of Hong Kong Chu Hai College has been a transformative experience. The master's program in International Relations, focusing on the Belt and Road Initiative, is both deep and relevant to today's global dynamics. Our professors are exceptionally knowledgeable and supportive, creating an environment of open dialogue and critical thinking where every student feels valued.

The curriculum is well-structured, integrating theory, research, and practical engagement, enhancing my ability to analyze global issues with greater insight and confidence. Beyond academics, Hong Kong's vibrant, inspiring, and opportunity-rich environment has been a perfect backdrop for my studies. The city's fast-paced yet organized life has made me feel safe and welcomed.

NSBRRI is not just an educational and research unit; it's a place for growth, connection, and purposeful preparation for the future. I am grateful to be part of this journey, and if you're aspiring for something greater, this could be your starting point too.

I was enrolled in the Master of Social Sciences in International Relations for Belt and Road Countries program at Ng Teng Fong · Sino Group Belt and Road Research Institute of Hong Kong Chu Hai College. The course structure was engaging and fast-paced, guided by supportive and approachable professors. Their sincere and warm communication made international students like me feel genuinely welcomed and never alone.

The College demonstrated great respect for religious and ethnic diversity, which I deeply appreciated. With its dynamic academic environment and extracurricular activities, students were encouraged to actively participate in various fields. Although living in Hong Kong as a Turkish student initially seemed overwhelming, the hospitality of my classmates and professors helped me adapt quickly to the local culture.

At that time, I was working on my master's thesis titled "Turkey's Middle Corridor Strategy and China's Belt and Road Initiative: The Transformation of Power Dynamics in West Asia." Through this research, I aimed to contribute to both my home country, Turkey, and the Belt and Road Initiative by offering a fresh and alternative perspective.
